MATHS COURSES

Maths skills are essential in everyday life and at work. Our free courses are informal and are a great starting point if you are considering further education and you don't have any formal qualifications. Our courses can also support you to be more in control of your household finances or to help your children with their homework.

We have a range of new Maths courses starting very soon. To register your interest or if you are unsure which course is for you, please get in touch for an informal chat and we can discuss which is the most appropriate for you. Courses will be delivered online or in community venues near you.
